2 Up Team Time Trials

- Single riders will be allowed to start and gain points in 2 up TTTs – similarly if one of the riders suffers a genuine mechanical mishap, but the other continues and finishes, they will still be included in the results and receive points.
- Partners for 2 up TTTs - in order to keep the series as a contest between those that have entered the full series and not one as to who can find the fastest partner, riders will need to ride with another rider from the series to receive points.

Standard Bike Events

- There will be a dedicated section for riders using standard road bikes. This will place the emphasis on rider's fitness rather than their bike or other technological advantages. Riders electing to compete in this section will only receive points in an event if they ride on a bike complying with the rules below.
- There is also one event for standard road bikes that must also comply with these rules. Riders on TT bikes won't be stopped from riding but they won't get any points. The definition of a standard bike is as follows: -
- Standard road bike frame only (but including sloping geometry) – no micros or low pros
- Dropped handlebars only - No tribars/Spinachis/aero bars
- No disc or 3 or 4 spoke wheels– although aero rims up to 50mm deep are permitted
- Standard road helmets only – no aero helmets of any description
- Anything else that I have forgotten but clearly offers an unfair advantage and is outside of the spirit of these events will also be prohibited. Gear ratios are the rider's choice and are not limited!
